Below will be found the secount of a drupken jail-bird's doings, armed with a revolver, which might have led to serious and perhaps fatal results. From the story one would Imagine that this is some Far Western town and not the Capital of the country. About four o'clock yesterday afternoon a white man named George Immich (a butcher), living on T street, between Seventh and Eighth streets northwest, stabbed his wife in the back, under the left shoulder, with a small butcher-friife, after which he gave himself up to Sergeant Stattery, of the Second Preciset, where he is now confined. Dr. B. B. Adams examined the wound and says it is not of a serious nature. No cause can be assigned for the assault. Mrs. Immich was in the yard back of the house at the time. Her husband was perfectly sober.

At the same hour Theodore Handy, a noterious there and black-leg, just released from the penitentiary, was at Mrs. Burns' restaurant, corner of Fourteenth street and Ohio avenue northwest, and had some awary words with a boy. He pulled a revolver out of his pooket and fired at the boy, but, missing him, hit Jerry Maxwell, a colored man, the ball taking effect in the front of the bead, entering at the forehead, passing over the top of the skull and counting out at about the centre of the head. Maxwell was conveyed in the police ambulance to the Fifth Precinct Station-House, where Drs. Farsons and Corbett, of the Emergency Hospital, attended on the man and pronounced the wound not serious. A little after five o'clock Mr. Phil A. Jullien, secretary of the Board of Fire Commissioners, was standing at the corner of Fernisyivania avenus and Four-and-a-half street talking with a party of friends when Handy, who was considerably under the indisence of liquor, approached Mr. Jullien and asked him if he could secure him transportation to Baltimore. Mr. Jullien, who had never seen Handy before, looked at him for a moment and said: "If you apply to the Commissioners to-morrow you may possibly be able to get what you want: it is too late to-night." Handy said he wanted atteket at once. Mr. Jullien intimated that he didn't care in the slightest what he wanted, and turned to walk up the Avenue. He had proceeded but a few steps when a bullet whistled past his head, and Handy was seen with a pistol in his hand pointed at the group.

HE THEN DASHED ACROSS THE AVENUE.

Officer Fritz, of the Seventh Precinct, was notified of the occurrence, and arrested Handy in front of the St. James Hotel. The would-be mireter pointed his platol at the officer's lead, who grappled with him and probably prevented a tatal tragedy. Handy was conveyed to Police Headquarters, and there became very abusive and refused to allow himself to be searched. He was locked up and will appear at the Police Gourt to day. On his person was found a seven-chambered Colt's revolver, calibre 22, with three empty cartridges in it. It was learned afterward that Handy went into O'Meara's sporting basiss, on Pennsylvania avenue, and, on preceive of buying a pistol, stole the weapon with which he did the shooting.

Mr. Hays, remembering that he had an engagement just at that time, stood not upon the order of going, but scooted.

"AFRICAN WIT AND HUMOR."

Eloquent and Entertaining Lecture by Hou, N. S. Cox.

There was a large audience assembled at Lin-coln Hall last night to hear the lecture of Hon. S. S. In a few well-chosen remarks Hon, Fred Bouglass introduced Mr. Cox to the assemblance, who greeted his appearance on the platform with a hearty round of applanes. After stating his reasons for choseing this particular subject for the occasion, the lecturer proceeded to analysa the peculiarities of the race of which he spoke and illustrate these by a rich voin of anecided that gave him at once the close attention and sympathy of his audience. In his description of the African race in the South he said that the folk-lore of the dwellers on the Southern plantations yet bore the impress of its oriental origin, and the quaint stories, ludicrous fables, and pungont proverbs of this people were almost identical with those food to-day in Expyl, Arabia, and Abyssinia. Some of the anecdotes related by Mr. Cox were side-spitting, and the applanse burst out again and again, forcing the lecturer to wait several minutes until it had subaided sufficiently for him to proceed. This was especially true when he related '904 Si's story of the newer of prayer, and the prayer made by a Washington colored hackman for the safety of himself and wife during their recent voyage to Europe. To the Editor of THE REPUBLICANT in the gift of the President, the intelligent colored citizens who have any knowledge of the political history of their country have but one sentiment to utter, and that will include commendations to the President for the wildom and manilues of his choice, and congratulations to the eminent statesman who fearlessly advocated the emise of the enslayed in ante-bellum times, and who afterward bore a conspicuous part in securing their emancipation and enfranchisement. The long-continued public services of exsentor Conkling bear abundant evidence of his worth in defense of human freedom and universal suffrage, and with heroic devotion he has adhered to the great principles of the party honored with his learning, cagacity, and statesmanship. It is a matter of history that the greatest efforts of his official life have been given to the establishment and maintenance of complete liberty, equality of citizenship, and the supremacy of the Constitution as it is a record honorable to himself, his party, and his country.

At in Shakspeare's tragedy of "Julius Cesar." At the time these young gentlemen made their first appearance behind the footlights last summer. This Regulation gave a lengthy review of their performance and commended its general exceilence in the warment terms. The efforts of the per-triner last night showed the care and study that they had given to their respective parts, and in some respects the performance of last night was an improvement upon their first attempt. The cast was as follows:

Marcus Budius:

Clarence B, Rheem

us Bentur....

Colibers and State Thompson Cultiens, Soldiers, eq.

Of the principals Messrs, Bangs and Hanford carried off the honors, the former receiving the compiliment of a call before the curtain after the second and third acts. In this connection it may be said that both these gentlemen show marked evidences of improvement. Mr. Bangs was far more natural, dignified, impressive, and effective in his impersonation of More intony, and Mr. Ranford, in the part of Cassus, was less nervous and far more effective than at his first performance. The Britiss of Mr. Rheems and the Jalius Casur of Mr. Mahoney both deserve marked praise for their excellence, while commandation should also be given to the Casea of Mr. Robinson and the Decius Bratus of Mr. John T. Hawkins. The ladies in the cast, Misses Bell and Annie Cavis and Jennie Thompson, were graceful, clear, and distinct in their enunciation, and sustained their several characters most acceptably. The fact that we have in our midds an association capable of giving so creditable a representation of a play so majestic in its language and action as "Julius Cassar 'should be a matter of pride to our citizens, who should support their endeavous in a substantial namer. To night the club will anpear in the "Merchant of Venice," in which Miss Mary K. Schreiner, the elocationary director of the club, will appear as Portia.

club, will appear as Portio. Ford's Opera-House-Haverly's Minstrels. Another crowded house was present last night at Ford's Opera-House to laugh and enjoy the per-formances of Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels. The omicalities of Billy Rice, Frank Cushman, Tomconicalities of Billy Rice, Frank Cushman, Tom Sadler, and Ben Gilfoit; the wonderful feminine impersonations of "The Only Leon;" the champion military elog, where the movements of each are in perfect precision, and the tableaux are executed with a most attractive effect. The Dockstaders and the "Patience" burlesque are among the specific attractions of the programme. A prominent feature of the first part is the excellent singing the efforts of Aifred Holland, Harry Earle, and George Harley being always rewarded by encores. The finale of the first part, "Scenes from the Hippodrome," is most amusing, and shouts of laughter greet it nightly. There will be another change of bill to-night, and many features will be presented which are both novel and very amusing. The Washington Communitery, No. 1, Knights Templar, have requested Manager Mack, of Haverly's European Mastodou Minstrois, to reserve them fifty seats for to-night's performance, it, no doubt, is not forgotten that the farmous band connected with this troupe furnished the music for the above commandery during the funeral obsequies of the late President Garifield. Money—An Armful of Money—Harrels of Money.

Monday we gave away diamonds to the amount of $1,750 at a fair retail valuation. Tuesday we gave gold, silver, and nickel watches worth fully $2,500 in came of tea and coffee bought at our store. We cheesday and yesierday were "Money Days" with us, when every can contained a sum of money from 10 cents to $250. A great many people this week thus far have received presents either of diamonds, watches, or money, and those especially who have been fortunate enough to find valuable presents in either tea or coffee express themselves as being highly pleased with the fair and honorable manner in which this company treats its patrons. Though under a heavy expense daily in advertising our goods and place of business, as well as giving the names and addresses of those whom fortune favors, we cheerfully do it in order to prove to the many thousand readers of this paper that we are doing a perfectly legitimate business, and refer to the very ones whose names we advertise to ouvine all that we do as we claim every limit, rejardless of age, exc. creed, color, or previous coulding of servitude. #604 147H ST. N. W., Jan. 3, 1882.
GENTLEMEN:

I have suffered for years with loss of appetite and a heavy, oppressed feeling about the stomach. About April last I commenced taking Brown's Iron Bitters, and have taken several bottles. My appetite greatly improved under the use of the first bottle. It is now good, and I am relieved from the oppressed feeling. The medicine has certainly done me a great deal of good.
